

Book Overview

“Everlasting Matrimony: Pearls Of Wisdom From Couples Married 50 Years Or More” has been called the book version of the legendary movie “When Harry Met Sally.”

Author Sheryl Kurland interviewed 75 couples to create a treasure trove filled with 4,000 years worth of relationship advice and tips. Husbands and wives were interviewed separately. Frankly and honestly, they discuss every aspect of relationships and marriage, ranging from communication, sex, and money to children, religion, hardships, and much more:

“Never discuss sensitive subjects when you’re hungry – eat first!”

“A happy marriage means you have been forgiven a lot and you have forgiven a lot.”

“A good marriage is 75/25 – and both sides must give 75%.”

“Sex is very important...We had great sex for the first 40 years. After that, we’ve coasted.”

Marriage takes a lot of doing. From time to time, an occasional cocktail helps, too.”

The couples interviewed in “Everlasting Matrimony” reside across the nation and represent a sprinkling of America, from all different faiths, backgrounds, and ethnicities. Their advice is complemented by nostalgic black-and-white and years-later photographs as well as vignettes telling how each couple met.

Everlasting Matrimony:

Pearls of Wisdom from Couples Married 50 Years Or More

Sure. There’s a ton of books on marriage and relationships. But they’re all the author’s analytical formula for love. “Everlasting Matrimony: Pearls Of Wisdom From Couples Married 50 Years Or More” is the only book consisting of interviews with the real-life experts, couples who’ve talked-the-talk and walked-the-walk. 75 couples (husbands and wives are interviewed separately) reveal their secrets – that’s 150 real-life experts, totaling 4,000+ years of sensible, time-tested, proven advice.
